BACKTESTING

- Time to get practical! You will now take the topics from the Mechanics and apply them (DO NOT use the bar replay tool for this!)
- Take the exercises in Lessons 1-7 of the Mechanics and apply them to the charts.

This will take time. Don't expect to pick up these lessons right away. Apply aggressive patience. Remember, financial freedom is on the other side of all this!

THE TRADING CENTRE

- Download the Falcon Trading Centre if you haven't already. The Trading Centre is full of tools built to help you stay on track & remain focused. You'll be using this resource a lot, so it's best you watch the video tutorial on the dashboard to familiarise yourself with it.

MAKING A WATCHLIST

- Build a watchlist weekly (ideally before you watch that week's episode of the Sunday Market Breakdown).

Note: It's perfectly fine to copy Mark's watchlist, but just understand why he has those pairs on watch and compare and contrast to your own pairs.

- Additionally, watch the Midweek Market Review to stay up-to-date.

PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

There's a lot of content! Give yourself time to digest the information.

- Make your own watchlist weekly. Compare it to Mark's in the SMB.
- Forecast on each trading day.
- Journal in detail all the positions you take.
- Review these positions one week later to see if you still agree with them.
- Backtest with specific questions to make sure you get the most out of your time.
- Watch each Trade Recap and compare it to your own trades.

BUILDING A TRADING PLAN

- Watch Lesson 6 of the Falcon Mechanics ("Trading Systems") and download the Trading Plan Template doc.
- Familiarize yourself with each setup by backtesting each one individually and identifying the key characteristics that caused us to take those trades.
- Watch the Trade Recaps and pay particular attention to the higher time frame when Mark builds the trade from the top down.
- Journal your trades taken in the live market in your Trading Centre. This will allow you to review them later and see what you did right or wrong.

PERFORMANCE WEBINARS

- Once you have a firm understanding of the strategy, you can attend the Performance Webinars held every other Thursday.
- The Performance Webinars are catered to all skill levels, and they're built to benchmark backtesting ability.

Tip: You can find the link to each webinar in the #performance-webinars Discord channel. Make sure to also check the Falcon Events Calendar regularly to stay up to date (Link to the calendar on the dashboard)
